Useful Information

Top Table Layout

Remaining Tables – Closest relatives are usually seated nearest to the top table, Aunts, Uncles, Grandparents and other relatives.

Table Plans

The main Bridal Party sits along one side of a long table facing the guests, so everyone can view the Top Table.

The Bride and Groom sit in the middle, the Groom on the right of the Bride, with men and women alternated. Pageboys and Ushers usually occupy tables closest to the top table; any additional Bridesmaids & Flower Girls may be seated at the ends of the top table along with the minister if invited. Although you may adapt this to your choosing, this is only a guide.

The Order of the Speeches:

Each speech should be announced by the Toastmaker or Best Man

First Toast

The Bride's Father or Giver-Away stands and says a few words about the Bride and Groom, welcoming the Groom into the family and toasting the health and happiness of both Bride and Groom.

Reply

The Groom responds on behalf of the Bride and himself, thanks everyone for all the gifts received and proposes a toast to the Bridesmaids.

Reply

The Best Man replies on behalf of the bridesmaids, reads cards and once again toasts the Bride & Groom.

Speeches and Toasts

Speeches include the toasts and usually occur before the meal. The delivery of the speeches is the part of the day most people dread, but with a little planning it need not be an ordeal.
